

18th of September 2017

Annotation:

XXIV. World Quality Day International conference
Quality without borders / Kvalita bez hraníc

We live era enabling development and deployment of entrepreneurship as such. Customer can choose from options he would not even dream about couple of years ago. Unemployment rate decreasing, employment rate increasing, people satisfaction should increase having so many choices. Shareholders and investors shall be satisfied if reflecting upon the modern trends and innovation opportunities and turned those over to the fruits of their own business. Society shall benefit from the success and achievements of the profit oriented business companies. What are the quality measures of our life? Speed of changes taking place, amount of options available, availability of products and services or maybe unlimited promises of others? It looks like quality as we know today is unlimited and if there are any limits these are shifted by enormous speed.

This year conference focus onto topics demonstrating that moving limits exists and is inevitable part of our lives as well as topics proving that limits have their parts in our lives and respecting such limits is important.

Let us invite you to event to participate in discussion over the presentations focused onto current management system topics as well as life with no limits.

We look forward to meet you at the conference.

Slovak Society for Quality team